First Annual Summer Summit:
Metal Casting and Printmaking Workshops
June 5th & 6th, 2009

Mesalands Community College

nmaea secretary, Djean Jawrunner, is hosting our first, and hopefully annual, Summer Summit in Tucumcari, New Mexico. Home to the state's largest nationally recognized teaching foundry and one of the largest in our region, Mesalands Community Collage has graciously agreed to provide our members, and other art educators, the opportunity to learn how to sand cast aluminum subtractive relief tiles. All levels of experience are invited.

At the Summit, printmaking on a newly purchased press will also be available for your artistic needs thanks to a grant from the McMullen Foundation and sales from student work. Woody Duncan will be your host for monoprint and collograph printing.

Workshops are intended to be in the style of our past Ghost Ranch conferences a.k.a. relaxed, intimate and informal. This gathering should not be confused with our annual Fall Conference which is still scheduled for November 2009. Rather, it is a supplement to our growing needs as an organization and we hope to see you there!

Please know what a great opportunity this is for our association as this foundry has poured more than 5, 000 lbs of iron in one day at the Spring Iron Pour Workshop held in every March for national artists, curators and sculptors. This year will be Djean's 11th year hosting that event.

One college credit is included in your fee, and is non-negotiable for facility use. Find out more about Mesalands Community College at www.mesalands.edu.
